Front-end web developer with a background in illustration, allowing for a keen eye in design and presentation. Earned a certificate in full stack web development through the University of Arizona coding bootcamp. This course taught skills including HTML, CSS, JavaScript, jQuery, Bootstrap, and React. These technologies combine well with a background in art to create engaging and visually pleasing websites. In addition, strength in attention to detail, meeting deadlines, teamwork, strong communication, and adaptability all help in yielding high-quality results when developing for the web. Currently working to continue to further develop coding skills through independent learning and personal projects.
